US ACLI(Acli Sports Union)

The US ACLI is a democratic, non-profit organisation with a central headquarter in Rome. It is the sports segment of Acli, an association of Christian laypeople that promotes work and workers, educates, and encourages active citizenship, defends, helps and supports citizens, especially those who are marginalised or at risk of social exclusion.

US Acli has a capillary presence at local, regional, and national levels with rank-and-file structures, clubs, and sports associations.

It was born in 1963 to promote and organize physical activities, games and sports aimed at people of different age and social statuses, with particular attention to people with problems or at risk of marginalization.

The Unione Sportiva Acli aims to promote, support, and organise motor, recreational and sports activities for people of all ages and conditions, with particular attention to those most at risk of physical and social marginalisation. It is a promoter of sport for all through functional initiatives to improve the quality of life of people, society and civil life. Privileged attention has always been paid to children and young people, not only because sport represents one of the 'easiest' activities for recreation, aggregation, and commitment, but above all because motor, recreational and sporting practice plays a fundamental education and training role.

US Acli In Short is a:

- Sports promotion Organisation recognised by CONI (Italian National Olympic Committee)
- Paralympic Organisation recognised by the CIP (Italian Paralympic Committee)
- Enrolled in the National Register of Social Promotion Associations
- An Organisation with welfare, recreational and cultural purposes recognised by the Ministry of the Interior
- Enrolled in the Register of Associations and Organisations carrying out activities in the field of anti-discrimination
- Member of ISCA (International Sport Culture Association).

Within its framework there are:

- More than 40 sports with competitive events;
- Physical and recreational activities for all ages;
- Health education initiatives, respect for nature and the environment;
- Training and refresher activities for sports operators and professionals;
- Legal and fiscal advice to affiliated sports clubs.

A significant part of the Unione Sportiva Acli's commitment is to promote and support actions to improve laws and regulations in a sporting manner, to protect the right to sport of all citizens, and to recognise sport for all as an indispensable element in the construction of a new welfare.
